

The relations between Africa and the European Union are deeply rooted in history. Already in 1957, with Art. 131 of the Treaty establishing the European Economic Community (EEC), a system of association was created between the EEC and a number of countries classified as "Overseas Countries and Territories" (OCTs), listed in Annex IV of the Treaty, of which 18 were African... (continue on our blog )